

QUALITY POLICY

Infrared is becoming more accessible and will be instrumental in energy savings and individual safety.

The mission of ULIS is to design, manufacture and market high-performance infrared components, at the level of quality required by the most demanding applications, allowing the camera manufacturers to be competitive and to free themselves from specific infrared constraints.

Driven by its values of solidarity, innovation, integrity and performance, ULIS agrees to:

- Guarantee that legal and normative requirements relating to their activities and products are respected
- Engage all personnel and promote their development
- Develop sustainable partnerships with their suppliers
- Anticipate the needs and expectations of their customers
- Finally, obtain the total satisfaction and renewed confidence of their customers
